POLYGAMY FORGOTTEN

GLENDALE TRAVELER MAKES INTERESTING COMMENTS ON MORMON CITY

Salt Lake City, Sept. 15, 1914.

Dear News: Crossing the Sierras into Nevada Saturday night was a cold experience. Every passenger in our car complained of having slept cold. Isn't it strange that the Pullman company can't furnish more than one pair of blankets to each berth? If the passengers are few, the blankets belonging to empty berths can be "swiped," but if the car is full there is not one extra cover of any kind to be had until the "Pullman winter" sets in, which is about Nov. 1st.

I got even with the Pullman company, however by paying for only a berth for the night, and "visiting" with some newly-made friends all day Sunday, thus saving $3. I must be careful not to tell too many of you fellows about this, however, or you'll try to work the same scheme every trip you take, and the Pullman company will find some way to cut down the "visiting list."

We had an unusually nice lot of men and young men in our car, and I don't know of any place where a discussion of current events and present-day problems can be as profitably had as in the smoking compartment of a Pullman car.

The citizens of Glendale are such an intelligent and widely traveled lot that I must not dwell much on descriptions of the country, or sights and scenes with which most of you are familiar, such as Lucin cut-off across Salt lake and the beauties of the Wasatch range, which skirts the great valley of Utah from Ogden to Salt Lake City and beyond.

The first touch of fall has come and the air is crisp. Dark storm clouds have lowered today and gusts of wind with dust remind one of those conditions in his old home years ago. The mercury has been down to 42 and a little snow already lies on the mountains. The beautiful green gardens of the Mormon ranchers are, however, as yet untouched by frost, though the near approach of winter is causing them to hasten the picking of tomatoes, which seem to be a favorite crop this year. Long lines of full boxes are seen in the fields and the wagonloads waiting their turn and strings of loaded freight cars, at the canneries, betoken low prices for canned tomatoes and catsup and condiments for the coming year.

Apple trees in all sections seem loaded this season, so there ought to be an abundance of that luscious fruit for the householder at very economical prices. Salt Lake peaches have a national reputation and are very cheap, locally.

The city founded by Brigham Young has grown to be a beautiful city of 125,000 people, about equally divided between Mormons and Gentiles. Polygamy is practically unknown and is almost forgotten. The Mormons are a peace-loving, thrifty people and many of their leading families have grown to be very wealthy. With all of the inroads of private and corporate wealthy business institutions, "Z. C. M. I." is still a very flourishing establishment. The hospitality of the Mormons is proverbial, and I discovered it to be very sincere on my first visits to Utah twenty-five years ago, when I had to make some of the small towns. Their country people are "strong" for dancing, at which dances singing and drinking beer are chief features. They drink beer almost as freely as Germans in a German community. The Mormons are nearly all musical and their temple choir is ranked among the highest musical organizations in the United States. Their religious belief, too, if you eliminate the "Book of Mormon," is very little removed from that of some of the most advanced evangelical churches. It is the "revelation of Joe Smith,' which makes them outcasts among other religious peoples. As before stated, they are very industrious and thrifty, and make ideal colonists, as their settlements in Northern Mexico well testify. They seem to be able to make the desert bloom where nearly every other class will fail.

The city water here and in Ogden reminds me of Glendale's—because it's so different. It is "hard" like that in Los Angeles. How fortunate we are that we have settled our water question, and will own the fine, soft water of Verdugo canyon. We all will appreciate that more as time goes on. "Hoch der Glendale!"

Boostingly yours,
W. B. KIRK.

TELLS WAR EXPERIENCE

That Americans are treated well in Germany during these war times is the assertion of Mrs. E. E. Volker of Glendale, Cal., who is spending a few days with Mrs. E. O. Williams, of 142 Grove Place. Mrs. Volker, who frequently visits her friends in Utica, is on her way with her two children to her home in California. For the past year she had been staying with relatives in Brunswick, Germany, and she arrived in New York Sunday on the Rotterdam of the Holland-American line. This ship, by the way, was stopped five times on the journey across the Atlantic by ships of the British war fleet.

In telling briefly of her experiences, Mrs. Volker said this afternoon: "It was on August 1 that we first began to hear war rumors in Brunswick, and it was shortly after that that the terrible rushes on the banks began there. When war was declared, excitement in Brunswick was intense. I saw two Russians arrested on that day and the officers were followed by a mob of Germans shouting "Off with their heads."

These Russians were locked up, but they were not molested. I saw the Hessian corps get ready for the roll call and helped to sew buttons on the army coats. Thousands of women offered their services as Red Cross nurses and there are now many of the German women acting as conductors on the Brunswick street cars, the regular conductors having joined the army.

"Another interesting scene which I witnessed was the branding of the horses for war purposes.

"It is not generally known in America that all horses kept for private use must be brought to headquarters, where they are examined by a veterinarian. They are then assigned for different uses and at the end of the war the owners of these horses receive a check for the amount the horse was valued at at the beginning of the war. Shortly after the present war was declared our baker delivered bread to us in a hand cart, his horse having been accepted for use in the cavalry.

"It was reported in Germany just before I left that many Russians came over the border and asked that they be arrested. They did this because they were starving. Money was not at all scarce in Germany when I left. I left Brunswick Aug. 19 for Rotterdam, Holland, on a train that was known as the "American Special." It was the second train of its kind that had gone through since the war was declared. There were 500 American passengers aboard and we had to keep our passes from the Berlin council in our hands continually, as close watch was kept on the train.

"Even after we had crossed the border into Holland, the train was flagged, but we were allowed to pass unmolested. The Americans who had been unable to get any money, mail or communications of any kind from the United States were about penniless and 125 of these had their fares paid by the Berlin council. In regard to the Americans in like circumstances, notices were printed in the German papers urging the German citizens to "take in and feed the Americans and treat them kindly." I want to say that the Germans treated the Americans in a royal manner. We were forced to remain in Rotterdam for a few days, awaiting the arrival of the ocean liner, and the Hollanders also showed us no little hospitality. Holland keeps its neutrality very strictly, however.

"We were supposed to leave Holland on the Rotterdam August 28, but the following morning found the steamer laying in the harbor. We were told that difference in opinion had arisen in regard to whether or not the penniless and ticketless on the decks should be allowed on board. I think that most of these were later taken aboard. When we lifted anchor there were just 2400 passengers aboard.

"Before the Americans leave Germany they are all requested to fulfill a mission — that of putting before America Germany's position in true light, by emphasizing the fact that Germany did not want to go to war, but that war was forced upon that nation."

TO PRACTICE SONGS

The children of the Congregational Sunday school between the ages of 8 and 14 are asked to meet at the church tomorrow afternoon at half past three to practice songs for the temperance rally.

LECTURE TUESDAY EVE

DATE INDUSTRY IN COACHELLA VALLEY TO BE SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

Local owners of Coachella valley land will be interested in the following notice which is sent out by the Coachella Valley Date Growers' Association in the interests of date culture in that valley. The communication is as follows:

"Coachella Valley Land Owners:

"Gentlemen: From experiments and from data gathered, we are confident that this valley is the most perfect place known of all date growing regions to grow the famous Deglet Noor date, which brings the highest market price of any date grown in the world, and which is very sensitive to soil and climatic conditions.

For this reason we wish to meet with everyone owning land in this valley, to talk over the best plan of further advancing our mutual interests. A meeting is therefore called to be held in Glendale at the Glendale Union high school on Sept. 22, at 7:30 p. m. Be sure to come as we believe this will be of financial interest to you.

Yours truly, Coachella Valley Date Growers' Association. Per

Pres. and Mgr.

Mr. Paul is the representative of Riverside county to the San Francisco exposition and deeply interested in the development of the date industry. His talk will be open to the public and anyone owning land in Coachella valley should not fail to hear him. All others are welcomed.

APPOINTED DIRECTOR

Mr. F. J. Wheeler of 1330 North Maryland avenue has been appointed director of one of the branch yards, of which there are twenty-five or thirty, for the Hammond Lumber Co., Los Angeles. Mr. Wheeler will retain his interest in the Tropico-Glendale Lumber Co., of which he is the president and Mr. C. B. Lane manager, and will also continue his residence in Glendale, where he has resided for the past seven years.

LOCAL QUOIT CLUB WINS AGAIN

The Pasadena Tourist Quoit Club went down in defeat again last Saturday when they met the Glendale club on the local grounds. They are a jolly bunch of good fellows and have some very good pitchers among them, but our boys handled them very easily without gloves. The following is the result of the match, which was fought hard from the word "go" until the last pitch:

First half: Glendale—473 points, 119 ringers; Pasadena—392 points, 92 ringers.

Second half: Glendale—491 points, 102 ringers; Pasadena—380 points, 74 ringers.

Total: Glendale—964 points, 221 ringers; Pasadena—772 points, 116 ringers.

Glendale won 32 games out of the 50. Mr. Head, a Glendalian, made the highest individual score, 63 points with 18 ringers in one series.

DRY MASS MEETING

The Dry Federation will hold a mass meeting in the Glendale Union high school Thursday evening, Sept. 24, at 8 o'clock, at which time Mr. S. W. Odell, president of the State Federation, will deliver an address on California Dry.

Mr. Odell is an able speaker and has been directly connected with this work for some time, and it is truly a privilege to have so prominent a man and interesting speaker in our midst, who will be able to tell us exactly what has been accomplished and should inspire everyone to do all they can to further this great movement.

Mr. Frederick W. Baker, candidate for superior judge, a man not afraid to uphold his principals, even at personal loss to himself, will address us on the technical points of amendment No. 47. Mr. Baker is a pleasing speaker, an able lawyer, and we feel sure he will be able to shed considerable light on this very important amendment. You cannot afford to miss hearing him.

Together with these able speakers there will be a children's chorus, a male chorus, and also the Federation grand chorus and other splendid numbers. Please read the article in this paper telling of the Federation's work.

Mrs. D. H. Smith of 146 South Maryland avenue, who about two weeks ago was bitten in the arm by a dog, is greatly improved, but still considerably bothered with the wound.

"DRYS" ARE BUSY

LOCAL BRANCH IS NOW PUSHING FORWARD WITH GREAT ZEAL

The Glendale branch of the California Dry Federation is thoroughly organized and is pushing forward with great zeal and earnestness. The work is outlined by the State Federation under direction of the executive committee, of which Mr. Oliver Clark is chairman) in whose absence on an extended trip east Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, as vice-president, has been doing valiant work in planning and appointing committees for the various branches of the work, apportioning to each the work for which they are best suited, and may it be said much to her credit with courtesy to all, with as little friction as possible, in so large a movement.

Workers, heads of committees, officers of executive body, young people's auxiliary, are standing shoulder to shoulder ready to support every good move in this campaign.

We urgently request the support of all the good citizens in this, our most beautiful city, and trust you will so far as is possible co-operate with us, not only in your vote on Nov. 3, but by your attendance at the large and most interesting meetings which will be held from time to time in the Glendale Union high school from now until election day.

The various committees have under way some splendid preparations by way of interesting features for each meeting, and will endeavor to make each meeting exceedingly interesting to old and young.

MRS. VANDEBURGH ENTERTAINS

A number of ladies enjoyed one of the warm days last week in the home of Mrs. W. H. Vandeburgh, 1470 Salem street, where at a table beautifully decorated with a center mound of white rosebuds and fern a deliciously prepared luncheon was served to Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. E. M. Witt, Mrs. Raymond P. Foss, Mrs. J. W. Dutton, Mrs. Arthur Chapman, Miss Coral Griffith and the hostess, all of whom are members of the newly organized Priscilla Club, which hereafter will meet the first and third Thursdays of every month.

It has also been decided by this little social and thimble club to introduce a "Priscilla book of knowledge" into the club, the contents of which will be specified recipes brought by the different members and written in the individual books by the interested possessors.

Mrs. J. W. Dutton will be the next hostess, entertaining the club first at luncheon and then with needlework in her home Thursday, Oct. 1.

SETTLERS PICNIC AT ECHO PARK

About forty "oldtimers" enjoyed the annual picnic held by the early settlers of Glendale in Echo park, Los Angeles, Saturday last, September 19th.

As usual Mr. J. C. Sherer, president, presided, and gave an interesting talk about the different people present, who responded with a few words significant of the occasion.

Those who participated thus were Mr. Frank Muhleman, Judge Melrose of Tropico, Mr. Klippenger, now postmaster at Huntington Beach; Judge Burch, Tropico city clerk; B. F. Patterson, resident on Belmont street and one of the earliest settlers in the valley; Mr. Devine, Samuel Parker, Robert Taylor, Edward Ayers, another early day resident; the Rev. Henry and Mr. A. G. Doyle.

Officers for the coming year were also elected, Mr. Sherer having again been unanimously voted president; Mr. Robert Taylor, vice-president, and Mr. B. F. Patterson, secretary and treasurer.

CORLISS ANSWERS

SPORTS OF ALL KINDS EXEMPT FROM THE SUNDAY REST LAW

To the Editor of Glendale News:

My attention has been directed to a signed article in your issue of the 18th inst. regarding the lecture delivered in the high school building the evening of Sept. 14. I seldom give consideration to such adverse criticisms, but this essay by your correspondent, Mr. D. W. Hunt, is so manifestly unreliable as to challenge a reply.

In the first place, the gentleman said that I "at once admitted that a Sunday law was just and right." Nothing could be more misleading than this, since my opposition to all Sunday laws on that, as on all other occasions of the kind for many years, has forcibly demonstrated my position on this question, and it now is the same as in 1890, when before the congressional committee having under consideration the then famous Breckinridge Sunday bill. Being asked if I would endorse the bill if it specified Saturday instead of Sunday to become the legal day of rest, I replied: "Far from it, gentlemen of the committee, but I would oppose it just as strongly as I do in its present form, for the reason that it is not sectarianism that calls us here today; we see rather in this bill a principle of religious legislation that is dangerous, not to our liberties in particular, but to the liberties of the nation."

Mr. Hunt's criticism runs in a channel that intimates that my principal aim was to controvert the eight hour initiative proposition. Had he been more discerning and without preconceived judgment of the matter in hand, he would have noticed that the eight hour measure was touched upon simply to show how adroitly it has been inserted in the proposed Sunday measure, presumably to secure the votes of church people, under the impression that they would thus vote for a straight Sunday rest bill. My conviction was stated in this connection, that had the bill been explained to those whose signatures were solicited in order to place it on the November ballot, the required number would never have been secured. The following was in part my line of argument:

By this bill private work such as farm and fruit industries, grocery and common trades are penalized if carried on for more than forty-eight hours a week; while sports of all kinds, including theaters, cafes, ice cream parlors and other such places of business may run indiscriminately. These exemptions themselves are an unanswerable argument against such a law; else why the exemptions for such classes of business, when useful industries are expressly forbidden? The cases not exempted are, by natural and legal right, entitled to the same privileges as those which are exempted; and because of not placing all citizens on the same basis before the proposed law, the measure cannot fail to be regarded as unjust, being antagonistic to the principle of equal rights guaranteed by the federal and the California state constitutions.

But the most ill-judged clause of the bill is that in which appears the following: "And provided, that the above subsections numbered 1 and 2 do not apply to any person whose total hours of labor during seven consecutive days do not exceed forty-eight hours." The subsections here mentioned relate to the number of days in each week one may be permitted to labor. So by this exemption one may labor seven days each week, provided he does not exceed forty-eight hours of labor in that time. As is readily seen, this destroys the effect of the entire bill as a Sunday measure and transforms it into a labor bill, with the probable hope of receiving the church vote in expectation of carrying a Sunday rest measure.

The bill also assumes to fine or imprison one for working more than the stipulated forty-eight hours in any given week of seven days. What is more, it enjoins upon peace officers of the state everywhere to inform against and to prosecute any and all persons violating this provision. This discreditable work must be done by civil officials, not because they actually witness any infringement of the law, but from information by some possible enemy of the accused. This amounts to no less than a system of espionage which is sure to beget neighborhood jealousies and contentions.

While outwardly claiming to be a weekly rest day measure, the bill is a labor proposition, pure and simple, parading under the guise of a Sunday bill. The reason for its counterfeit exhibition seems quite evident from a study of its exemptions, which

The volley ball team of the Methodist Brotherhood are wearing the laurel crown and gloating over their victory over the Presbyterians on Saturday.

The occasion was the annual picnic of the Presbyterian Sunday school, and thinking to have a little sport at the expense of the Methodists, M. P. Harrison and other members of the Presbyterian Brotherhood challenged their sister church to a game of volley ball.

These men are good sports and of course accepted the challenge, being well aware of their knowledge of the game and their ability to defeat any team in the state. Accordingly they climbed into a machine and were whirled away to Griffith park, where their opponents were lying in wait for them.

It would take too long to give all the details of the scrimmage which followed, but as the Methodists themselves express the result of the fray, "We put it all over 'em." The Presbyterians went down in such ignominious defeat that it is unlikely they will ever challenge the Methodist Brotherhood to another game.

"To the victor belongs the spoils," is a maxim as old as the hills, but this case was the exception that proved the rule. The defeated team left the field hurriedly to partake of picnic viands while their victorious rivals were left to seek their way homeward, hungry and tired, but happy in the knowledge of victory.

The members of the team who were victorious are Messrs. Ed. M. Lee, H. A. Wilson, T. A. Wright, C. H. Bott and C. D. Lusby.

The five who are not saying much about the game are Messrs. M. P. Harrison, W. S. Perrin, Harry Read, Ben Nichols and Edward Robertshaw.

ATTENDANCE LARGE

The reading of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" by Miss Bertha McKee Jackson, who was assisted during the evening by Mrs. Greely Kolts and the Tuesday Afternoon Club quartet in musical numbers, was well attended and quite profitable to the Baraca-Philathea classes of the Central Christian church, under whose auspices this entertainment was given at the Masonic temple on Saturday evening.

Those appearing on the program were well received, Mrs. Kolts having generously and sweetly responded to the encores which followed her pretty songs.

The hall was decorated for the occasion in red and green, potted ferns and cannas having been alternately banked upon and around the base of the platform.

Those acting as the committee in charge were Miss Helen Mosher, Miss Atala Browning, Mr. Frank Mosher and Mr. Pressley Moore, prominent members of the classes.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The legislative section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club will continue the study of the amendments at their meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in the home of the curator, Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson, 200 Orange street. A great deal of interest was manifested at the last meeting and it is hoped there will be a large attendance tomorrow. Members will please observe this announcement as no other notice will be given.

ENTERTAINS INFORMALLY

Among the merry Saturday night affairs was the dancing party given by Miss Gertrude Braun, who entertained about twenty-four friends informally in her home, 900 South Glendale avenue. A color scheme of yellow prevailed, quantities of golden glow having been used by the gracious young hostess, who was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Henry Braun.

SURPRISE SUPERINTENDENT

Sunday at the Methodist Sunday school the entire school from the beginners' department to the seniors united in an expression of love and appreciation in a gift to their superintendent, Mr. T. W. Watson, in honor of his recent marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson, the latter formerly Miss Belle Helm of Los Angeles, have recently returned from their honeymoon trip and great was their surprise Sunday when the Rev. B. A. Johnson in behalf of the school presented them with a chest of silver. Mr. Watson has been faithfully and efficiently serving the school as superintendent for about ten years and this testimony of appreciation was well deserved.

OCTOBER 1, THE DATE

October 1 has been set as the date for the distribution of the anniversary number of the Glendale Evening News. There will be no deviation from that. Contributors and advertisers who are not ready by the first of next week with their copy will be too late to get space.

A special pressman is busy every day doing the press work, and it is indeed fine work. It takes second place to none in Southern California.

A 64-page special cover edition printed on a good grade of book paper, with more than 150 columns of reading matter pertaining to the Glendale community, and hundreds of pictures of individuals and residences, for 25 cents, and perchance you are a paid-in advance subscriber for the Glendale Evening News or the Tri-City Progress, you will receive a copy of the anniversary number free of charge.

The number is a hummer, fully worth $1.00 of any man's money.

Orders are taken only when accompanied by cash. Already we have received many. Inspect the work we are doing before giving us your order for copies.

THE PURPOSE OF THE INVENTORY

"The inventory is to the stock what counting the cash is to the cash register."

A clerk in a retail drygoods store sold half a dozen items to a customer for cash. As he was wrapping up the order he slipped ten yards of silk into the package.

When he rang up the sale on the cash register it did not include the ten yards of silk.

The cash register did not yell "murder," and there was no record of the silk removed from stock.

When the owner of the store counted his cash that night he found in his cash register just the amount which the tap showed should be there.

He thought his clerks were all honest. He never suspected anything to the contrary. Yet this one clerk was as crooked as the negro porter's kinky hair.

At least a dozen of the customers of the store always insisted upon being waited on by this one clerk. Apparently it was good friendship and good salesmanship. In reality, in this case, it was—something else.

These customers, apparently among the best customers of the store, came in almost every day. The amount of goods they took away unpaid for, and uncharged, however, much more than ate up the profit on the goods for which they paid.

At the end of the year an inventory was taken. But the method of taking inventory in this store wasn't designed to uncover crookedness. It was only designed to give the owner of the store a rough estimate of the amount of goods on hand.

The inventory was not checked up against the sales or purchases. No stock record was kept.

About three years after this clerk was employed the owner of the store decided that he should have a better bookkeeping system.

Within a month after the complete system was put in operation, the crookedness of the clerk was discovered. The loss was estimated at $5000 a year through the dishonesty of this one clerk.

The merchant now takes an inventory four times a year and keeps a stock record which enables him to check his inventories against the stock he should have on hand. It protects him and his clerks.

His purchase record shows him the exact amount of stock bought of each line and of each division in each line—shirts of different sizes for instance. When goods are sent from the stock room into the store, the amount is recorded in the stock book.

At the end of three months when the goods in the store are inventoried, the amount on hand in the store, and in the stock room, must balance with the stock as shown on the stock record.

His new bookkeeping system departmentizes his store in such a way that if any particular line of goods was short he could trace at once the shortage to the clerk who was in charge of the department.

A druggist in a little Pennsylvania town who had never taken an inventory in the ten years he had been in business got pinched for money and decided to check up his stock in the hope of raising money by a clean-up sale.

He found $15,000 worth more of goods on his shelves than he thought he had.

He thought he was carrying about $10,000 worth of stock. In reality, he was carrying $25,000 worth. He had kept no records that enabled him to know how much he had purchased; how much he had sold; or the amount of profits he had made.

If his store had burned out before taking that inventory he would have been satisfied with $10,000 from the insurance companies. He would not have known that he was figuring himself out of $15,000.

After he took his inventory he was so astonished at what he found that he decided to put in a system which would enable him to know exactly where he stood all the time.

With an accurate system he was soon able to reduce the amount of stock he carried and to make a great deal more money.

The amount of capital released by up-to-date methods enabled him to meet his bills and open another store. Now he conducts half a dozen stores.

An inventory without a stock record affords no check against the goods which should show in the inventory. A stock record without an inventory affords no check against the theft of goods from stock.

The inventory is to the stock record what the counting of cash is to the cash register.

Running along from year to year without knowing what stock you have on hand is no more business-like than going along from day to day without knowing what money is in the cash drawer.

Are you only guessing at the amount of stock you have on hand? Is your inventory only an estimate of the amount of goods you should have?

Can you honestly say that you are able to make as much money out of your business without really knowing all there is to know about it, as you could make out of it if you did have the information at your finger's ends? Be honest with yourself.

THE ADVERTISER MAY HAVE TO PAY

If the second-class postage rate is increased subscription rates will be advanced, the American people will pay the increase, the publisher will be unable to, and the public will find that because of this increased price, thousands—yes millions—will be denied the privilege of getting interesting news and educational matter. You cannot have a low subscription price for periodicals unless periodicals can be carried through the mails at a low figure.—W. H. Taylor before Convention of Machinery Men.

There may be an error in calculations in the above. Circulation, being the most valuable asset possessed by publications, would probably not be sacrificed by an increase in subscription price. It is likely, instead, that advertising rates would go up, to meet the increased cost. This would increase cost of selling advertised goods and would result in higher prices on standard products.

The public will therefore gain a one-cent letter rate and will pay it back again to the makers of advertised goods. The one-cent letter movement thus appears to be merely a big shake-up, necessitating readjustments (always spelling calamity), and with nobody the gainer, in the long run.

The movement probably will fall flat, as the United States government seldom goes off half cocked.

A NEW CAFETERIA IDEA

"The Store of a Thousand Clerks" is the slogan of a new retail cash store in Lawton, Okla. This store has no clerks. The goods are plainly priced, and customers wait on themselves, their purchases being checked and money received by the cashier at the entrance. The manager and a floor walker are the only staff members.

U. S. OWES PUBLISHERS A SQUARE DEAL

Millions upon millions of dollars are invested today in the publishing business, every dollar of which is employed in serving the people. This tremendous industry is founded very largely on the 1c postage per lb. rate; in fact, its very roots are entwined about it. These millions have been invested in good faith by the publishers expecting the public to deal as fairly with them as they have dealt with the public. An increase of rate means that you are driving an axe into the very roots of the industry.—W. H. Taylor before Machinery Manufacturers' Association.

A COMMON QUEST

"I say, my friend," called the motorist to the farmer, as he drew up alongside of the field, "I'm looking for a decent road to take me into Snakeville."

"I'm derned glad to hear it," replied the farmer. "Ef ye happen to find it, stranger, send me a telly-gram, will ye?"—Exchange.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Sunday school was a disappointment, only 179 in attendance, as against 191 the Sunday before. The notable falling off was in the men's class, which reached low water mark in attendance, some of the old standbys being absent. The women's class forged away ahead with 38. Brace up, men; let's have 50 or more next Sunday.

At the morning service Elder Francis spoke on the subject, "Paul on Mars Hill." Paul with great diplomacy and cleverness turned upon the Athenians their own inscription, "To An Unknown God," by declaring to them who that god was—even Christ Jesus. Then the pastor spoke feelingly of our duty to our God and his son, Jesus Christ. At the close of the sermon three were added to the church by statement.

The evening theme was "The Rich Young Ruler." This young man was strictly moral. He had kept the letter of the law from his youth up. But the master, with his spiritual insight, probed to the bottom of his trouble when he said: "One thing was love for his fellow men, the love that would cause him to cheerfully part with his great possessions for the benefit of mankind and then turn and humbly follow the master." It is not riches that lose a man the kingdom of heaven, but the love of riches.

The pastor showed by examples, notably in the case of Napoleon, where ambition as well as love of money, loses the most desirable of all possessions, and he closed with a stirring appeal to let nothing stand between us and eternal life.

The Wednesday evening prayer meeting bids fair to be of great interest. The subject for discussion is "Does God hate the quitter and does he hate the coward?" Mr. Heacock takes the popular side of this question and the leader, Mr. Kilborn, the opposite side. Only evidence from the scriptures, our only guide, will be free to enter into the discussion. Be there promptly at 7:30, for that is the time of beginning.

BAPTIST SERMONETTE

Sunday at the First Baptist church Rev. John H. Troy preached on "Clouds Rolled Away." He said in part:

"What a ministry is ours to help roll away the clouds! 'Comfort ye, comfort ye, my people saith your God,' Isa. 40:1.

"We recall a beautiful day back east in early November. Not a cloud in the sky. The last sweet breath of autumn was on the scarlet leaf. The birds seemed happily oblivious of the coming rigors of winter. It was a comfortable atmosphere. Just right to make tingle the blood and to intoxicate the senses.

"A sudden chill. A lower murmur in the pines. Confusion among the leaves. Toward the far-away purple fringe a smudge in the otherwise spotless blue. One small cloud, then another larger patch, then more, then still more, then legions, till all crowded and united into one black pall thrown upon the crystal blue.

"It was a long, cold, bitter winter.

"One day in spring there was a battle in the sky. The sun hurled its fiery darts against the grim fortresses of clouds. Slowly the forces of gloom and darkness fell back farther and farther till finally with one great burst of light Old Sol turned the battle into a complete rout, scattering the cloudy fragments and flooding land and sea with a triumph of golden splendor.

"All clouds rolled away.

"If for you the sun is always shining, cares unknown, there may be little in the parable of clouds rolled away. But everywhere are suffering souls. They will understand. O troubled soul, Christ can roll away the clouds. A living faith in Jesus will do more to clear those eyes dimmed with tears than any plan of mortal man. 'Just when I need him most, just when I need him most, Jesus is near to comfort and cheer, just when I need him most.' "

The many friends of Miss Ella Steele of 1528 Lorraine street will be very glad to know that she is slowly recovering from the serious illness that has confined her to her home for the past fortnight.

Mrs. Fannie Crouch and family of 918 North Central avenue entertained as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Scott of Los Angeles, formerly of St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Nancy Davis of Los Angeles very recently from Dallas, Texas, is the house guest of Mrs. F. M. Jones and daughters, Miss Ruby and Miss Dolly Jones, of 914 San Rafael street for the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharp of 1524 Lorraine street are enjoying the pleasure of entertaining as their house guests for the week Mr. and Mrs. Gillelen of Porterville.

Miss Mary Taylor of Elsinore is the house guest of Mrs. W. H. Benson of 1419 Pioneer drive for the week.

Miss E. D. Williams and niece, Miss Nellie Williams of 903 Dryden street, entertained informally last Saturday evening. Music and social conversation were enjoyed by the several guests, who later were invited to partake of a delicious luncheon. Those who enjoyed the delightful occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Menzo Williams, who very recently returned from abroad just in time to escape the difficulties of travel caused by the European war, and their house guest, Miss Emma Jones, who is visiting here from Scranton, Penn., and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Peterson of Mountain street, North Glendale.

The members of the Junior League of the Casa Verdugo M. E. church were entertained last Saturday afternoon by Mrs. George Tyrrell, the superintendent of the league, at her home, 1640 Ruth street. An afternoon filled with good times was enjoyed by some twenty young people, who later were served a delicious treat in the form of home-made ice cream and cake. Mrs. Tyrrell was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. I. C. Rice and Mrs. Rosson.

Miss Dolly Jones of 914 San Rafael street returned home last Friday from a very delightful trip to Independence, Cal., where she spent a three weeks' vacation with a party of friends from Los Angeles. The trip was made by motor and was greatly enjoyed both going and the return trip home, which was made by a different route.

CENTRAL LABOR COUNCIL

This evening, Monday, Sept. 21st, regular meeting of the Glendale Central Labor Council. It should not be necessary to urge the importance of the presence of each member.

Brothers, does it occur to you that about one dozen out of a membership of about one hundred are doing all the organization work? Does it occur to you that by simply keeping "paid up" does not cover the scope of your duty? By simply doing so you closely approximate the relation of the coupon clipper to the producer and say, Mr. Craftsman, "who can make a living without affiliating with organized labor?" Do you realize that your attitude in the labor world is similar to a bedbug on a fat, sleek slumberer? Can we get you to understand that regardless of the strikes that have been lost, the years of idleness that in the aggregate have been caused by strikes, the hundreds of millions of dollars which have been "lost" thereby and the suffering of millions incident thereto, is but a mere bagatelle to the loss of time and money and suffering which has been averted in conjunction with the increase which has been obtained by said "lost" strikes? Did it ever percolate through your gray matter that from the date of the first strike of note that not alone has the "card man" been benefited financially every day he has worked to date, but that you, who selfishly and gleefully point to the "wage scale" when asked "what is your wage" have been the chief beneficiary?

Did it ever penetrate your noodle that where organization is the weakest the wages are the lowest, progress almost a misnomer and were it not for the influence of your organized brothers in contingent cities the result would be not alone a standstill, but a down-grade movement.

On the other hand, select a "closed shop city." What do you find? Yes, everything is high, but do you find efficient mechanics migrating from San Francisco to Los Angeles? Hardly. Why not if everything is higher? For the very good reason that wages are proportionately higher than anything else.

A kitten gets its eyes open in nine days. When will you get your open?

TROPICO

With Leon White, Eugene H. Imler and Edward White as his guests, Harry Chandler motored to Santa Monica Sunday and spent the day fishing at Port Los Angeles, where over four hundred fishermen were busy plying their rods and reels. The quartet from Tropico were accorded the most fortunate of the many Isaac Waltons, as they succeeded in catching 75 members of the finny tribe. Among the varieties caught were halibut, perch, mackerel, tomcod, candle-fish, shark, stingaree and skate. Ed White succeeded in landing an entirely new variety of fish, which was the first of its kind to ever have been caught off the long wharf at Port Los Angeles. The fish proved to be such a wonder and novelty that Mr. White decided to leave it on the wharf with at least fifteen other fish the young men did not care to bring home.

There was hurrying and scurrying gathering up schoolbooks and searching for promotion cards in many homes in Tropico this morning when the children were arranging their "school property" in order to be on time at the first day of school. Mother always appeared at the most opportune time, however, and saved the day for her young hopeful by resurrecting books and cards and starting her boy or her girl off to school with a merry smile and lithe step.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Bowker of Santa Paula, who are visiting in Los Angeles, were the over-Sunday guests of Mrs. Bowker's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic C. Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hammel and Mrs. Jefferson D. Gibbs of Los Angeles were the Sunday guests of Miss Cora Hickman of Palm Villa.

Among the many new books that have been added to the list of books in the Tropico library are "The Eyes of the World," by Harold Bell Wright and "Once to Every Man," by Larry Evans.

Mrs. W. E. Roake of West Tenth street, who underwent a severe operation at the Angelus hospital recently, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to her home, where she will convalesce more rapidly.

The old settlers' or pioneers' picnic of this portion of the San Fernando valley was held at Echo park Saturday and was thoroughly enjoyed by a large number of the pioneers of the valley, men and women who helped in the early days in the development of this rich and fertile section, which then was an area rich in sagebrush, jackrabbits and cacti. Among the Tropico citizens who attended Saturday's celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Devine, Mr. Robert N. Taylor. Mrs. Isabella Moore of Sierra Madre, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Clippinger of Huntington Beach, former residents of Tropico. J. C. Sherer of Glendale was elected president of the association, with Robert N. Taylor, Tropico, vice-president, and B. F. Patterson, secretary and treasurer.

include sports, theaters and other like amusements. If it is a Sunday rest law, why exempt every kind of dissipation where lawlessness is likely to abound and penalize useful employments like fruit gathering and grocery sales? This consideration reveals that the authors of the bill do not so much want a Sunday rest, as they do to control men's time in behalf of their own selfish interests. But they have so contrived to disguise this feature that the church people are being led to sustain them in what they would not otherwise honestly do.

These deductions were then reinforced in the lecture by reading the concluding portion of an opinion rendered Sept. 2 on the bill by Mr. Bradner W. Lee, chairman of committee on laws for the Los Angeles chamber of commerce as follows:

"The proposed act is masked under a title which undoubtedly should and would be popular, yet the measure itself can be made an instrument productive of great harm should it become a law. It belongs to the same class of legislation as the proposed amendment to the penal code known as Proposition No. 3 hereinbefore referred to."

On the strength of this opinion the chamber of commerce on Sept. 9 adopted a resolution condemning the act, giving the following as their reason for thus doing:

"While the general principle of one day of rest in seven is not objectionable, and is generally and popularly observed regardless of legislation, the proposed act, masked under an innocent and popular title, is of the same class as Proposition No. 3, known as the eight hour law, and would be about as drastic in its operation; it is discriminatory in its provisions, difficult of interpretation (except to the trained legal mind), and its drastic penal clause and provisions for enforcement would fill our courts with thousands of cases where its terms had been innocently violated in the daily occupation of life for want of a clear understanding of its terms, thereby entailing widespread hardship."

This was the basis of the lecture referred to by your correspondent, and it is hoped this may be read as widely as was his criticism of the same.

Very truly yours for the right,

J. O. CORLISS,
Sec. Pacific Religious Liberty Ass'n.

CITY SHOULD PAY FOR PUBLICITY

A committee of Philadelphia business men recently gave it as their opinion that the sort of publicity campaigns in which cities ordinarily engage are ineffectual because they are not consistent and persistent. The fact that nearly all the publicity they comprise is gratis, was declared to be the reason for this. This committee believes that cities should map out careful, consistent campaigns, and should pay for the publicity at ordinary commercial rates, thus putting the expense on the community instead of on a few individuals.

THE LOVERS

("Mother, Son, Daughter," a truly story except in names, by Samuel Parker:)

It was a notable event—a real live ex-president was coming one chautauqua day and give his choicest speech away, not gratis, nay, not a cheap thing, sir; it cost them just $500 per. The date was sounded far and wide, to village, town and countryside. It was a day in balmy June, his speech was in the afternoon, and streets you could scarce pass along, so vast and eager was the throng of men and women all intent on seeing an ex-president. To see, to gaze, the curious led, they little cared for what he said.

Beanville, the town, was at its best, some over, and some underdressed, from patriarch to youngest kid, washed up or unwashed, clothing hid by outer garments loose and wide, while ribbons blazed on every side.

To properly the speaker greet the mayor had cleaned up the street and Beanville was made clean and gay and ordered kept so for that day. Beanville "400," joy, delight would meet the speaker on that night, e'er midnight train took him from town. He could "receive" with Mayor Brown.

The crush was great I here declare, for the "400" all were there, and it would not be false to say that many others found their way to meet and greet good Mayor Brown and honored guest of great renown.

Observe the couple over there—none in the room with them compare. He cast in mold to more than please, embodiment of grace and ease. She, well observe her lovely face, embodiment of ease and grace. Gracious their manners as they went to meet the great ex-president. None others in that grand array got such a "beaming on" as they. They pass, behold him standing there. Observe his Chesterfieldian air; her kerchief falls, with easy grace he stoops and lifts it to its place. Most any knight would "joust" awhile to win from her such winsome smile, and how his pulse would wildly stir to hear her sweetest "thank you, sir."

Observed of all observers they, the crowd began to melt away. Outdoors it may be chill, perhaps, he thoughtfully adjusts her wraps, and bidding host and guest adieu, they quietly retire from view.

"Who are those people, tell me, please; I never saw such grace and ease, such gentle dignity, from affectation wholly free. This is the bridal month of June—of course there'll be a wedding soon."

"No wedding there," my aunt replied. "She is too young to be a bride. They're both in love, as you can see, but it's inside the family. That nice young man was John La Rue—the woman, his young sister Sue. No, they have never been abroad, nor over much of home land trod. The ease and grace that so pleased you are to the mother's training due; trained not for show nor mere display; at home they use it every day."

PERSONAL PROPERTY

A Cleveland attorney took the Mediterranean trip a month ago. It was his first time across the water, and he stated on his return that he would have had a perfectly glorious time but for the silly questions asked him by customs officials.

It was on the pier at New York that his woes came to a climax. "Open your trunk, please,' commanded the custom house officer. "Have you anything in there but personal property?" he continued.

"What do you mean by personal property?" countered the attorney.

"For heaven's sake! Don't you know what personal property is?" The officer looked up in amazement.

"I thought I did," answered the attorney, "and I can assure you that there is no real estate in my trunk."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"OLD HICKORY"

The following story is told of how General Andrew Jackson got his title of "Old Hickory." Captain William Allen, who was a near neighbor of the general, messed with him during the Creek war. During the campaign the soldiers were moving rapidly to surprise the Indians and were without tents. A cold March wind came on, mingled with sleet, which lasted for several days. General Jackson got a severe cold, but did not complain as he tried to sleep in a muddy bottom among his half frozen soldiers. Captain Allen and his brother, John, cut down a stout hickory tree, peeled off the bark and made a covering for the general, who was with difficulty persuaded to crawl under it. The next morning a drunken citizen entered the camp and, seeing the tent, kicked it over. As Jackson crawled from the ruins the toper cried: "Hello, Old Hickory! Come out of your bark and jine us in a drink."

GOODNESS PAYS

The world cannot help falling from now on slowly, a little ponderously perhaps at first, into the hands of good men. . . . Goodness in its baser form already pays. Only the biggest men have found it out, but everybody is watching them. The most important spiritual service that any man can render the present age is to make goodness pay at the top (in the most noticeable place) in some business where nobody has made it pay before.

WELCOME TO AMERICAN SCHOOLS IS BROAD

The United States bureau of education is preparing and will send forth a special bulletin describing for the benefit of students coming from other countries the facilities for professional and collegiate study in the higher institutions of learning. Commissioner Claxton in announcing this document gives reasons for thinking that attendance of such students will increase this year, reasons similar to those recently set forth by the Monitor, but supplemented by one which is deserving of notice. He foresees a migration from South America as well as from Asia and Europe, the former due to the Panama canal opening and the better facilities afforded to the youth of republics on the west coast of the southern continent, and the latter due to the present conflict. No doubt the new waterway will have its effect in encouraging closer intellectual as well as commercial relations between the two Americas; and if, as the outcome of Europe's combat, Pan-Americanism takes deeper root one of its results will be increased interchange of youth seeking cultural betterment. Already the professional schools of the universities and the schools of technology of North America enroll many Latin-Americans. Tomorrow will see additions to that list from persons who under other than present conditions would have gone to Europe this autumn, or who, having begun their work there, now feel obliged to seek a less disturbed scene.

Whether or not many youth from the neutral nations of Europe will find their way to American centers of education is problematical. That Asiatics studying in Europe may come in considerable numbers seems probable. China continues to pour both young men and young women into the colleges and universities of the United States in a way that indicates maintenance at Peking of confidence in the sort of education received. If some national policies of China are reactionary the order for retreat in this field has not been given.

If there should be any marked increase in registration of students from abroad in the universities and colleges this autumn they will find awaiting them cosmopolitan student clubs formed to emphasize solidarity of the human family and to defeat separatist, national and racial feuds. Few recent additions to the student activities of the universities of the United States have equaled in importance the rise and spread of these clubs; and without doubt their most serviceable days lie before them.

HOW TO WIN

This is an age of specialization, my boy, and the only men who succeed in a big way are those who pick out some particular line of work and live with it until they get to know more about it than most other fellows. Concentration, consistent and persistent effort in one direction is the surest road to success. You'll never win in a big way—except accidentally—if you scatter your energies. The best steam engine in the world would race itself to ruin without its governor. Keep your mind on your job, specialize in your particular business and try to know as much about it as the man who created it, and, barring misfortune, you'll make more out of that knowledge than you will out of any chance success outside of your business.—Maurice Switzer in Leslie's.

FIRST OMNIBUS

"Omnibus" was an almost brand new word in its modern sense when Shillibeer took it from the French in 1829, and in France the name possesses a special significance for those who knew their history, for from 1672 to 1676 Paris had already seen a regular service of roomy public vehicles, "carosses a cinq sous." Only these predecessors of the modern bus were not "nomnibus"—for all. The letters patent which instituted them for the benefit of the middle class people laid down that they were not to be used by soldiers, lackeys or any other wearers of livery or artisans and laborers. These exclusive vehicles faded out of existence, and the new ones, which were started in Paris in 1828, were named "omnibus" expressly to signify their democratic character.—London Chronicle.

First Passenger—I understand that your city has the rottenest political ring in the country.

Second passenger—That's right. But how did you know where I'm from?

First Passenger—I don't.—Toledo Blade.

WHEN AN ESKIMO DIES

When an Eskimo is dying you will notice the inmates of the house moving everything out of doors; otherwise it would be contaminated by the presence of the dead man and rendered unfit for use. Among some tribes the dying man himself is borne outside. He is never taken out through the entrance tunnel, but always through the smoke hole or back of the house, so that his spirit will not find its way back. The Eskimos appear to have an uncanny presentiment of the approach of that dr spirit who comes to one and all. When you see him preparing the grave clothes of one of their number who is ill you may know that his end is near. I do not think that they do anything to hasten the end, although they may stab or hang the hopelessly infirm at their own request. It appears to be an instinctive feeling which is common to primitive people and which is often noticed in the lower animals.—Wide World Magazine.

A waste paper basket gets many ideas that rightfully belong to the man who uses it.—Montreal Daily Star.
